On Tuesday morning, January 2, 1980, the Wheeling schools opened their doors for the work of the second term of the school year. Although the weather was extremely unpleasant on account of the cold and sleet, still the rooms were all well filled with pupils except that some of the very little folks Company and also directors of the Moundaville Coal Company pessericy, and negotiated with them for the sale of the five acres of ground wanted by the Fostoris glass factory on which to erect a new plant. The price of $2.700 was agreed upon and the land company is to donate $1,000. The board of trade agreed to see that the balance of the money is raised and the property will be given the company. This settles the question as to where the factory will be built, and the glass company of the year. This is not always the case with our boys and girls. > The following is the paper read by Miss S. A. Scott, grammar teacher of Ritchie school, read before the Wheeling Teachers' Association on Friday:
> "I think we, as teachers, expect too much from our pupils. We make a great mistake when we think that the same law will govern all. No two must meet each and every individual care a little differently. Of course we must have general rules that must months closing December 31, 1899, has and do apply to all, but we must also been submitted by Agent Echols to understand each pupil in order to have a good school. I do not say a perfect school, for that we never will have. If we would know and understand our pupils, we should know something their home life and surroundings. I may not be easy to obtain this, but can in a measure gain some little knowledge by conversing with the puhomes whenever we can do so. Of course, every mother knows her own child's peculiarities, and can make excannot do. They all will say they do not want their children to do anything that is wrong.

"Many things, that at home appear harmless, are altogether out of place in the school room. We must exercise our own common sense and good judgment in trying to make our school the very best. A kind word spoken to one, a little favor shown to another, may do much to help us in our work.

"How often, when our pupils are troublesome, we lose our temper, and patience, and we speak harsh to them, do things get worse instead of better. If we only knew with what they had to contend, we would be more careful of what we say and do. If we would only govern self all would be well. We should remember we are dealing with children and we cannot expect them to act as older persons should do not try to put 'old heads on 'young shoulders.' "

"For the season of childhood's a span, And the heart that now leaps in the glad-ness and glee. Boon will ache with the cares of life."

This paper is very short, but it cer tainly is multurn in parvo. It contains advice that every teacher should heed. We should, as teachers, seek to know our pupils, their parents, their home training, in short, all their environ-ments, if possible. Knowing all these things we are then, as it were, but pre-pared to begin our work, let alone carry it out to a successful termina-tion. The sculptor's hand must be trained to as nearly perfection as may be before attempts to chisel the angel from the marble block, but how untrained the hands that strike blow after blow upon the marble of youth! no wonder that the angel that should appear from the touch turns out to be the demon. Remember, teacher, that "A blow upon the marble of youth will reveal itself either in an excellence or a defect to all eternity." When the time comes that wisdom is preferred to knowledge, and character to much learning, our schools will have started in the path that leads to the crowning glory of what a true education should be. Hasten the day.

From the report of Ritchie school for the month of December, the following items of interest are gleaned: Enroll-ment, 455 boys, and 437 girls; total, 892.
